90-Day Content Calendar System: The Strategic Execution Guide

Consistency is the currency of digital growth, but without a strategic framework, consistency is just noise. This 90-day system is designed to take you from sporadic posting to a predictable, high-impact content engine. By leveraging specific pillars, optimized frequencies, and a robust repurposing workflow, you will maximize efficiency while maintaining audience engagement.

Content Pillars Framework

To prevent creative burnout and ensure brand coherence, your content must fall into three distinct buckets. Do not mix these intentions in a single post.

1. Authority & Education (40% of Content): This is your "value-first" content. It positions you as the expert. Think tutorials, industry insights, myth-busting, and deep-dive analyses. The goal is to prove you know your stuff without asking for a sale.
2. Connection & Story (30% of Content): This humanizes your brand. It includes behind-the-scenes processes, personal anecdotes, client success stories, and team highlights. The goal is to build trust and emotional resonance.
3. Conversion & Call-to-Action (30% of Content): This is your direct marketing. It includes product launches, limited-time offers, direct sales pitches, and lead magnets. The goal is to drive revenue.

Strategy Note: If you are a new brand with less trust, shift this to 50% Education / 40% Connection / 10% Conversion. As trust grows, you can increase Conversion content.

Posting Frequency by Platform

Do not try to post daily on every platform. Quality beats quantity. Adopt these minimum viable frequencies to stay visible without being overwhelmed:

- * LinkedIn: 3-4 times per week. One long-form text post, one document carousel (PDF), and one personal story.
- * Instagram: 4 times per week. Two static images or carousels, one Reel (short-form video), and one Story sequence (daily if possible, but 4 days min).
- * X (Twitter): 1-2 times per day. Short-form thought leadership, hot takes, or quick tips.
- * TikTok: 3 times per week. Repurposed Reels or original short-form video.
- * Email Newsletter: 1 time per week. A curated digest of your top social content plus one exclusive insight.

Content Type Rotation

To keep your feed visually and structurally engaging, rotate through these five formats on a weekly basis:

1. The Carousel (Educational): 5-10 slides breaking down a complex topic into digestible steps.
2. The Single Image + Caption (Storytelling): A high-quality photo with a narrative-driven caption.
3. The Short-Form Video (Reel/TikTok): 15-60 seconds. Focus on face-to-camera talking or screen-recorded demos.
4. The Text-Only Post (LinkedIn/X): Pure thought leadership. No image. Forces the reader to stop and read.
5. The Interactive Post (Poll/Quiz): Low-effort engagement driver. Ask a question or present a binary choice.

The Repurposing Strategy: One Idea, Five Outputs

The secret to a sustainable 90-day calendar is not creating 450 unique pieces of content. It is creating 90 core ideas and repurposing them. Use this "Hub-and-Spoke" model for every weekly theme:

1. The Hub: Create one long-form asset (e.g., a 1,500-word blog post, a 10-minute video, or a detailed case study).
2. Spoke A (LinkedIn): Extract the three most controversial or insightful points from the Hub.

Post as a text-only thought leadership piece.

3. Spoke B (Instagram Carousel): Turn the Hub into a step-by-step visual guide. Slide 1 is the hook; Slides 2-9 are the steps; Slide 10 is the CTA.

4. Spoke C (Short Video): Record yourself summarizing the Hub in 60 seconds. Use the blog post as your script outline.

5. Spoke D (Email): Send the full Hub asset in an email. Add a personal intro: "I wrote this because..." and a P.S. linking to the social posts.

90-Day Content Topic Ideas by Week

Below is a structured 13-week plan. Each week focuses on a specific theme to maintain narrative cohesion. Adapt the bracketed text to your specific niche.

Weeks 1-2: Foundation & Authority
