Suno AI Music Prompts: 150 Genre-Specific Prompts + Style Guide

Welcome to the ultimate resource for mastering Suno AI. This guide transforms your creative ideas into high-fidelity audio productions. Whether you are a content creator needing background scores or a musician seeking inspiration, the following strategies and 150 ready-to-use prompts will streamline your workflow.

The Suno Prompt Formula: Engineering Your Sound

Suno AI does not interpret prompts like a human director; it interprets them as a data engine. To get consistent results, you must understand the two distinct input fields: Style of Music and Lyrics.

The Style of Music field is your primary control lever. Here, you define the instrumentation, tempo, mood, and genre. Avoid full sentences. Instead, use comma-separated tags. For example, do not write "a fast song about running." Write: `upbeat synthwave, 128 bpm, energetic, driving bassline, retro 80s, male vocal`.

The Lyrics field is where you control the narrative and structure. Suno reads bracketed tags like `[Verse]`, `[Chorus]`, and `[Bridge]` as instructions for musical dynamics. Crucially, Suno performs best when lyrics are concise. Long, complex sentences often lead to rushed delivery or mumbled vocals. Aim for short, rhythmic lines that match the meter of your chosen genre.
